

One crash. Two dead.

When the powerful try to rewrite the story, will vengeance ignite?

One mother. One tragedy. Five names that built her fury—and one by one, she'll burn them all.

When a deadly crash steals her daughter and the powerful twist the truth, Sofie Collins becomes the town's favorite villain. But grief can turn into something far more dangerous. Stripped of reputation and mercy, Sofie makes herself a promise: they will all pay.

From small-town lies and legal corruption to dark secrets buried by privilege, Sofie's search for justice will drag her through every layer of power, deceit, and betrayal. With each name she crosses from her list, she risks losing the last pieces of her soul—and the fragile hope that something human still survives beneath the rage.

As the ashes settle, only one question remains: when revenge is all that's left, can forgiveness ever rise?
